Camp Oakes, nestled in the mountains below Big Bear, is a relaxed, serene spot where the echoes of laughter set the mood for the 183 8- to 13-year-old campers.

West End YMCA gets one week of the summer resident camp and according to Russ Calderwood, assistant camp director, fills 99 percent on the first day signups are accepted.

"Camping," Calderwood said, "is something every child should have an opportunity to experience. All camps place emphasis on group-living, sharing, new friendships and enjoying the great outdoors."

Campers are housed in "bunk" houses, three-sided, roofed structures, with a trained YMCA leader and eight to 10 children.

"Sometimes we have some that are little unsure about sleeping in something that doesn't have four walls but after the first night, they all seem to love going to sleep watching the stars," said Keri Scully, program specialist and LIT (Leaders in Training) director at Camp Oakes.

Scully, affectionately known as "Skeri" by the campers came to Camp Oakes as a camper herself when she was a child. Now she acts as a counselor and is sold on what the program has to offer.

All staff, with the exception of the Camp Director, are volunteers and receive no pay. LITs actually pay to go.

Among the activities available for the children attending are crafts, row boating, kayaking and canoeing, swimming, archery, riflery, nature lore, horseback riding, a cookout and overnight camp-out, games, songs and campfires.

Although activities are structured, campers are able to follow their special interests. "We try to make sure every camper does everything at least once," Scully said.

"Often there are things they never have done before and aren't too sure they want to try but we encourage them to at least give it a try. Many times the new activity becomes a favorite," she said.

Safety and fun are stressed equally, Calderwood said. "With any area that is as rocky and hilly as this, you are going to have scraped knees and twisted ankles once in awhile but we haven't had any serious injuries for as long as I can remember."

Probably one of the most noticable things about the campers is the lack of arguments. Everyone is smiling, laughing — there are no signs of tears, unhappy faces or the sound of voices raised in bad temper or anger.

Freinds, fun and fellowship

Calderwood looked around at the boys and girls and said, "That's not really so surprising, we like each other."

The 260-acre co-ed camp owned by the Long Beach YMCA is designed for children 8 to 13 years old and this year, for the first time, a leadership camp was offered in conjunction with the regular session of Camp Oakes.

Leadership camp, Scully said, is for girls 13 to 14 who are too old for Camp Oakes but not old enough to train to be leaders.

"It has worked extremely well. The girls love the camp experience already and are enjoying learning if becoming a leader in training is what they want for next year," Scully said.

All activities are structured for both age and interest. The overnight camp-out has different routes and differences for both ages and sexes.

The longest distance, for the older group of boys, involved a trip of about 16 miles round trip, while the shortest, for the youngest girls, was only about ¾ of a mile total.

"We aren't trying to push anyone into doing anything that is too much for them but we don't want anyone left out either," Scully said. "Offering something that fits each age group aloows us to do it."

A typical day, Calderwood said, begins at 7 a.m. with wake-up call. "By 7:15, everyone is assembled at the flag pole for inspirational time. This is when a theme for the day such as 'friendship' is selected and then we sing songs and tell stories about it."

Breakfast is at 8. Each cabin sends two people per day to set up the table, serve and then clean up. "This is a rotating thing; everyone helps," he said.

After breakfast, campers go back to their cabins with the leaders in training to oversee the straightening up of the cabins.

"This is the time when the director and unit leaders get together and discuss things — do problem-solving," Calderwood said. "If there is a child being left out of things, is homesick or if there is a problem with an activity, this is when we take care of it."

At 9:30, the unit directors (cabin counselors) return to their charges for activity times. Cabins sign up as a group for activities, two in the morning and three in the afternoon.

"They do everything as a unit, they decide what they want to do, they cooperate in decisions and in everything else," Scully said. "You'd be surprised how short of a time it takes for them to get into it."

Riflery, said program specialist Tom Tolliver who handles the activity, is very popular and not just with the boys.

"Although some girls are a little reluctant to try it, they are actually easier to teach and better shots than most boys," he said.

Strict safety regulations are always in effect near the rifle range. Campers shoot single-action .22 rifles at paper targets from a prone position.

"The guns are almost too heavy for the younger girls," Tolliver said, "but the prone position helps somewhat."

"Bulls eyes" are valued highly by any rifleman fortunate enough to make one. Camper Eric Eaders, proudly showed his off to Calderwood when he came to the shooting platform.

Those with long memories probably can recall the Chipmunk's "Letter from Camp" song but the only similarity present at Camp Oakes is the letter itself. "We make them write home once and encourage the parents to write once also," Calderwood said. Phones calls, in either direction, are "verboten."

Themes play a large role in camp activities. "It makes it all more fun," Calderwood said. The first breakfast, is always "pajamarino," he said. "There's something about showing up for breakfast in your pajamas that beaks down all barriers. It's instant relaxation. How can you be

Missionary hospitals REAP a windfall

By Ian Fallis

In a tropical jungle, two men wrestle a crate out of a Land Rover.

They gingerly set it on the porch of a small mission hospital whereone, a domtor, pries it open. Bandages, syringes and vitamins pour out like candy from a pinata, revealing a 15-year-old but shiny X-ray machine.

"It's like Christmas in July!," the missionary exclaims.

Leaning against the wall, the crate lid bears the return address of REAP International, Upland.

REAP is a Christian organization that supplies "useable medical equipment" to 465 mission hospitals in 87 countries. It is "the only organization in the world that has the scope of ministry we do," said founder Jim Sharp.

"The key word is useable," said Sharp, who dropped his own career as a radiologist to start REAP in a small La Verne office ten years ago.

At the time, REAP stood for for Radiological Equipment Assistance Program, but Sharp said they dropped the full name and the periods between the initials five years ago and started supplying more than radiological equipment.

Today REAP operates out of a refurbishing and shipping building and a storage and office building on Ninth Street in Upland.

In 1982 it shipped 108 tons of medical equipment and supplies. So far this year, mission hospitals have requested as much equipment as they requested in all of 1982, Sharp said.

The equipment is useable because of the care taken in the refurbishing and shipping building.

"Well over 75 percent (of the medical equipment) sent (to mission hospitals) by well-meaning people never sees operation," Sharp said.

The most common reason is the equipment is not complete or otherwise "didn't work when it left here."

REAP refurbishes all the medical equipment donated to it, said Sharp, adding that local hospitals, doctors, clinics and medical suppliers often donate their equipment when it is replaced with something newer.

"Eighty percent of our equipment comes from a radius of 65 miles," he said.

Usually, even 15- to 20-year-old medical equipment is welcomed by mission hospitals, Sharp said. "On the average, they are about 20 years behind, technologically, in their equipment."

Besides, Sharp said, it doesn't make sense to take "highly sophisticated equipment with an LED readout ... and put it out in the jungle 500 miles. There are just more things that can go wrong."

REAP founder Jim Sharp points to medical supplies packed in spaces in long, narrow crates of overhead X-ray rails.

"You're better off with the simpler machines," he said.

Under the watchful eyes of Sharp and Bill Teninty, a biomedical engineer who is operations manager, the used machines are carefully checked, repaired, refurbished and tested until they meet the manufacturer's original standards.

If the machines are too old or too damaged to repair, they are disassembled for parts, because some mission hospitals are using similar machines. REAP is about the only place the hospitals can find such old spare parts, Sharp said.

After the "new" machines have been photographed to ease reassembly, they are carefully packed in crates. That careful packaging eliminates the second most common reason for machines not being useable — damage in transit.

"If they're not properly crated, they get over there and they're all busted up," Sharp said.

Medical supplies are "not our primary effort," and are not ordered, but are a sort of bonus. Even though the crate is custom-built around the piece of equipment, "there are always empty spaces" into which supplies can be placed.

Since shipping costs are usually by the cubic footage, not the weight, it costs nothing extra to send the supplies.

"An average of $1,000 to $1,500 in medical supplies goes in every crate," he said. In a pile of 40 crates in one building, "there is over $40,000 in medical supplies we're giving away."

"We get some letters back ... one said it was like Christmas in July. One sent us a (photograph) showing the open side" of a crate, with medical supplies flowing out "like a big waterfall," Sharp said.

Man from REAP hears call, moves mountains

By Ian Fallis

Ten years ago, Jim Sharp found out mission hospitals were having trouble getting medical equipment.

Today, the organization he founded is supplying more than 100 tons of equipment and supplies to 465 mission hospitals in 87 countries.

In 1973, Sharp, 60, of La Verne, was going through Spain on his way home from an international conference on radiology, his specialty.

"We met an American couple in a Spanish motel," Sharp said. "He was involved in missions and clinics.

"He asked if I had any idea of the trouble mission hospitals had with medical equipment. I said, 'I don't,'" Sharp said, and the man told him of the problems.

On the way back, Sharp, a Christian, said he prayed and told the Lord that if there was anything in the mail regarding missions when he got home, he would check into it.

The third letter he opened was about missions, he said.

So Sharp started contacting various mission boards, and soon found out that most had given up sending medical equipment overseas because of the problems involved.

Since there was a need for someone to refurbish and ship medical equipment, he started doing it.

He opened a small office in La Verne and started a "one-man, volunteer operation."

"When word got out, I was inundated by calls from all over the world," Sharp said.

So he closed his own office — giving up what he described as "a substantial bit of income" — and relied on the Lord, he said. □

$$$ for youth athletics is well spent

By Boyd Sheets
President of Upland Pony League

My kids were never superstars and I'll never be famous as a Pony League manager with winning teams because I don't believe that winning is everything.

When I first became involved in the Upland Pony League, I would see boys turn out for every game, yet they didn't play one inning during the entire season! That really made me sad and a little mad, too. So I worked on the board of directors to get the rules changed. Now, every kid must play three innings in a seven-inning ballgame, whether the team is winning or losing.

Unless you're involved in a community activity, such as youth athletics, you don't realize how important they are. The benefits don't always jump out at you like interest in a bank account, but they add up. Kids have to have an outlet for their energy. If they don't they run the streets and get into trouble. Keeping them busy is the most apparent benefit, but there are others too. They have opportunities to be part of a team and no matter what it is or how small, the part they play is important. They have opportunities to develop both physical and mental skills that will stay with them the rest of their lives.

You know, a lot of people seem to think that money spent on these activities is wasted, but I can tell you, it's a lot cheaper to spend money for bleachers, lights and equipment than it is to house a kid in juvenile hall!

Yet, you have to work so hard to find money for these kids! For example, in 1978, after Proposition 13, the Citizens for Youth Activities in Upland attended every city council meeting to lobby for money for youth athletics. Finally, after a mid-term review of the budget, the council "found" $530,000 which was used for lights, equipment and other recreational facilities. These benefited the soccer, Pop Warner, Little League, Colt, Pony and American Legion teams, plus other activities that help hundreds of children. This year, through a $58,000 Community Development Block Grant authorized by the City of Upland, we will get some much-needed bleachers at Hawkins Field. The bleachers represent the fulfillment of a goal we had seven years ago.

The work isn't over, however. We need more community involvement and parents willing to participate. It's worth all the effort though, because the benefits far outlast the work and effort. As I watch these kids grow into responsible adults, I know much of the credit goes toward their training and experience in community sports activities. □

Friends always ready to help at the library

By Linda Yao
Library Director

Library news

The library staff considers anyone who uses the library as a friend as well as a patron. But "The Friends" is a term that is often heard around here, and for good reason.

"The Friends" is a shortened name for the Friends of the Upland Public Library, which is a formal organization made up of citizens in our community who are concerned with the quality of library services offered to Upland residents. With their membership rolls swelling to over 300, the group has had quite an impact on the quality of library services the City of Upland offers its citizens.

What kind of impact have they made? Like most library friends groups, the Upland Friends are always ready with their purse when it comes to buying furniture and equipment. Catalog tables, map cases, patio furnishings, audio-visual equipment are all acquisitions made by Friends of the past. But a mere listing of their purchases does not show the real picture. For instance, a year and a half ago the Friends purchased a large screen television set and video disk equipment. They also provided seed money to start the video disk collection. Over 7,000 is the recorded attendance for library movies to date. Patrons, many of them children, have been able to enjoy movies such as "Arsenic and Old Lace," "The Philadelphia Story" and "Annie." Two years ago the group bought the library the first public microfiche file which holds past issues of "Time," "Newsweek," "Science" and other popular magazines which are on microcards. These microcards are used for research and term papers by our patrons. Since that time, the public has been able to retrieve the materials directly. An average of 150 microcards are used weekly. This is a direct service made possible by the Friends.

Last year the Friends purchased a microcomputer and printer for the library. Because of this purchase, the library has just published its fourth edition of the Community Resources Directory. It is the first edition produced on the computer. Hundreds of people request the directory and it is used by individuals for personal use as well as by health and mental care professionals. Even the Upland Police Department has made the directory available in their patrol cars to aid officers in their jobs. This directory was made possible largely due to the Friends' efforts.

The group has also sponsored most of the library programs and special events. To date 626 children have registered for the summer reading progra and 450 is the total attendance figure for the childrens activities and programs the Friends have sponsored. Other behind the scene actions include volunteering their time at the library for activities such as shelving, shelf reading, mending books and filing. You can see that the Friends are an integral part of the library and it would be hard to imagine what our library world would be like without them!

The Friends sponsor several events through the year which are designed as fund raisers (a subject that is always on their minds) and get togethers. There is the ubiquitous book sale that Friends groups are known for thoughout the nation. Our Friends have scheduled their annual fall book sale

Downtown has seen many changes

By John H. Nicholson

Glancing Backward

By John H. Nicholson

Occasionally, readers of these scribblings will call to say they are interested and to offer other gems from the past. Nobody has yet advised scrapping the column, so I will carry on a bit. Most of what I put on paper is just what I recall, personally, and I would never twist the truth. I'm like my Pop, who often said "I would tell it six or eight different ways, before I would lie about it."

Since I was part of Upland's small fry, many changes have been made "downtown." Late comers may be interested in some of them. At Euclid and Ninth, the Mobil Station was the site of the First Presbyterian Church. Rev. Stone was minister. His son, E. Tweed Stone, and his wife, Zella, founded Stone Funeral Home, and Tweed was later mayor of Upland. The east corner of that block was Draper's Mortuary. East, across First Avenue, the weed covered lot was the Upland Inn, which burned a few years ago.

Upland Savings is on the site of the "old" Upland Lumber Co., now relocated. Much earlier, Upland Grammar School was located there. Upland Bakery at 120 E. Ninth, was Danner's Bakery. The now vacant Crocker Bank was the First National Bank, with the Magnolia Building and Loan in it's western end.

North, across Ninth from the bank, was Mac's Drug Store, run by P.H. McQillan, an early mayor of Upland. It had everything, including a soda fountain and beauty shop. I came out of Mac's one day, and found a man laying on the sidewalk, evidently out cold.

I ran back in and alerted Mac, who ran out with first aid. The fellow came around, mumbling about lack of food, hungry kids, etc. A hat was passed among the many onlookers, and the poor soul staggered away with the generous Uplander's cash. A couple of weeks later, the Upland News ran a note about the same panhandler using the same trick in various local towns.

Mac retired, and the corner became Harris Pharmacy. Then, the J.J. Atwood Co., next door, to the north, added the corner to their clothing establishment. I recall at least one remarkable feature of the original Atwood store.

The cashier was on a balcony at the rear. From several sales locations, overhead cables ran to the cashier. When a sale was made, the sales ticket and cash were put into a container. A cord was pulled to hoist the container to the overhead cable. Another cord was pulled, and a slingshot-like gadget sent the container sizzling up to the cashier, along the cable. Change came back as the containers coasted back down the cable. It was fun to buy something you might not really need, just to watch it work.

On east on Ninth, Transamerica Financial was the Commerical National Bank, and later, the first home of Upland Savings and Loan. The building at 257 was the home of the Upland News, and on the corner to the east, the First Assembly of God Church was the First Church of the Nazarene.

The parking lot, east of the Grove Theater, was Engle Ford Agency, later owned by Mildred Puckett, and then by Ellery Wright. Charles and Mildred Puckett had orignially had a Ford agency where the Bank of America now stands. They moved to Ontario, with a partner, as Reese-Puckett Ford, and Alan Couch took over the now B of A site, selling and servicing Chevrolets. Mildred came back to Upland, buying from the Engles. She later became our Municipal Court judge.

Second Avenue was our major business street, between the Santa Fe Railway and D Street. It actually started at Seventh Street and as a residential street, went north to the Santa Fe, with no crossing of the tracks. It started again at A Street and ended at 11th Street, at an orange grove. Later, it cut on north to Foothill, opening a nice residential block.

The intersection of Ninth and Second Avenue was the center of downtown. At dead center of the intersection, where the Kiosk is now, was a "Button." It was metal device, over a foot in diameter, and several inches high, shaped like half a grapfruit.

The "Button" was used to control traffic making a left turn. Drivers just kept it on the left, rather than cutting the corner. No other signs or controls were used, but the police force often pounced on those who took the shorter route.

More on Second Avenue, next time. □

Italian federation welcomes non-Italians too

By Terri Tirella

You don't have to be Italian to be a member of St. Peter and Paul's Italian Catholic Federation.

"Anyone can belong; it's a family organization," Mary Ellen Melei, apostolic chairman, said. She said the main purpose of the club is to draw non-practicing Catholics back to the sacraments and practice of their faith.

In the local branch, formed in 1976, about half the member families have one parent of Italian descent.

The Rancho Cucamonga branch was organized after a visiting priest, Father Eamonn Lyng, approached parishioners for their support. The federation, through fund-raisers, obtained the money to purchase a stained glass window and confessional furniture, and donated other materials needed by St. Peter and Paul's during its initial construction.

The Italian Catholic Federation itself was created "to help Italians who had come to this country, who were new and couldn't speak the language," Melei said.

She said it was formed to draw

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City Council of the City of Upland will hold a continued public hearing on Monday, August 15, 1983, at 7:00 p.m., in the Council Chambers of the Upland City Hall, 460 N. Euclid Avenue, Upland California 91786, to consider the following item:

Receive additional testimony regarding DESIGN CONSIDERATIONS for the ROUTE 30 TRANSPORTATION CORRIDOR, which generally is to be located between 19th Street and 20th Street as it crosses the City from east to west.

An agreement between the State of California and the City of Upland, dated May 15, 1962 sets forth the following: Route 30 transportation corridor through Upland would be essentially at-grade except for a depressed section at Euclid Avenue. Access on the west side of the City would be a full diamond interchange at Mountain Avenue. Access on the east side would be via a half diamond at Campus Avenue, and a half diamond at Euclid Avenue, with a service road connecting them.

IT IS THE INTENTION OF THE CITY OF UPLAND TO CONSIDER DESIGN OPTIONS IN ADDITON TO THE ORIGINAL DESIGN CONSIDERATIONS IN THE AGREEMENT OF 1962 RELATIVE TO BOTH THE VERTICAL ALIGNMENT AND TO THE LOCATION AND ARRANGEMENTS FOR INTERCHANGE ACCESS TO THE FACILITY. Such other options as a fully depressed section from east of Campus Avenue to east of Benson Avenue, a full or partial interchange at Benson Avenue, and modification of interchange arrangements at Euclid Avenue and Campus Avenue will be considered.

Maps and other information on the Route 30 facilities design are available in the Engineering Department between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, and may be viewed by interested parties prior to the hearing. You are invited to attend said hearing and express your opinion regarding the design of the Route 30 Transportation Corridor.

Upland works at improving its traffic flow

By Joy Sommer

Numerous traffic projects designed to reduce congestion are in the design stages in Upland, said city traffic engineer Peter Liu.

High on the priority list are installation of double left turn lanes on three sides of the intersection of Euclid Avenue and Foothill Boulevard and a signal at Foothill Boulevard and Alta Avenue.

Funding for both projects is assured through Federal Aid to Urban Areas (FAUA) monies and as soon as approval comes from the Upland Street and Light Committee and the city council, the projects will go ahead, Liu said.

The Euclid/Foothill project is particularly ambitious, Liu said. "It would involve several changes in addition to the three double left turn areas (none southbound) on Euclid Avenue.

"Areas like the right turn area off of Foothill going south on Euclid would be eliminated and the turning areas would be widened."

The purpose of the project is to improve traffic flow in all directions and allow turns to be completed faster.

"When we put double turning lanes in on Mountain Avenue and Foothill Boulevard, it significantly reduced the problems we were having there," Liu said.

"If you remember, traffic was often backed up for quite a distance and because of there being only two traffic lanes each way, one of the traffic lanes was usually blocked by cars wishing to make a left turn onto Mountain. We had a lot of collisions and a lot of frustration."

Liu admits there will probably be some inconvenience to motorists while the three-month project is going on. But he also noted that residents usually take the inconvenience in stride.

"If you recall, Mountain Avenue was never completely closed when we were improving it. We would be doing the same on Euclid/Foothill.

"We stress construction safety and try to give adequate notice of the fact street work would be going on. Although there is some disruption, people seem to take it well, since they know when it's completed, things will flow much better."

Supplying a cornucopia of medical equipment

Often the crates must sit in REAP's buildings for months as they await the proper clearance. Sharp said the group tries to get the medical equipment and supplies into foreign countries duty-free to save the missions money.

Otherwise, it can face a 100 percent tax, he said.

But just because the equipment works and gets to a mission hospital safely does not mean it can be used. It still has to be set up and installed, and the hospital personnel have to be shown how to use it.

REAP takes care of that problem by periodically sending technicians out to the hospitals.

Sharp said REAP concentrates on helping missionary hospitals, but will help other hospitals. "If a government hospital wanted us to go to Haiti to help, we would say no. If we were in Haiti, and they asked us to come by, we'll do it."

Of course, the equipment wouldn't be much use if the missionary hospitals couldn't afford it. So REAP only asks them reimburse it for out-of-pocket expenses in refurbishing and shipping the equipment, Sharp said.

Sharp pointed out a sterilizer which had just been cleaned, rewrapped and tested perfectly, and said a new sterilizer would cost $18,000. He said he had recently been quoted a price of $12,000 for a newly refurbished sterilizer.

That particular sterilizer "is going on our bulletin for $900," he said.

"When hospitals find they can get equipment at 8 percent to 10 percent the (normal) price," they deluge REAP with requests, Sharp said.

REAP uses word-of-mouth instead of any concentrated effort to spread word of its services. If organizers promoted REAP, he said, "we would be so inundated we would have to have another warehouse."

"We grow with requests and with

New systems always have their little bugs and the new phone system at the Upland Police Department is no different.

During the first day of the new system, the police department found that calls were not necessarily going where they were intended and then emergency calls began going through the desk of Linda Streigel, Chief Coy Estes administrative secretary.

A plea for patience went out until the system settles down and behaves itself.

Upland designs projects to reduce traffic congestion

Because of the high traffic speeds, pedestrian safety and the difficulty of making left turns onto Foothill from Alta Avenue and from Memorial Park, a signal is planned there.

"It's really needed there quite badly," Liu said. "Not only do you have people wanting to cross to the park, you also have people from the park wanting to go to the stores and restaurants on the north side of the street. Add that to the turning problems and you have a place that needs a signal," he said.

Liu says the biggest trouble spot in the city is Mountain Avenue at the San Bernardino Freeway.

"We've found it handles the same traffic volumes as Euclid Avenue, but the difference is Euclid has six lanes and Mountain has only four. Add to that Euclid is predominently residential there and Mountain is business.

"We've been studying the problem for a couple of years. Last summer we compieted a timing fine

City offers information to assist new residents

By Joy Sommer

The city of Upland sends a letter of welcome to all new residents along with an enclosure listing services available.

"We've been doing it for some time," said City Clerk Dee Carpenter. "People seem to appreciate getting the information."

The letter, signed by Mayor John McCarthy, gives the new resident facts about the city, lets them know about city council meetings, the need to re-register to vote and invites anyone with questions to call.

One page lists community development services from the planning, engineering and building departments. It gives brief information on permits, when it is alright to operate a business from the home, grading, property line location, right-of-way and the regulations regarding yard and garage sales.

If what the new residents need is emergency numbers, they are included too. The letter also covers what to do about abandoned vehicles (report to police), animal regulation, ambulance services in the city, bike registration and tips on burglary prevention.

Under the public services umbrella, city hall, library and recreation numbers and services are listed. Information is also provided on garbage disposals and sewers, cable television, parks and the homeowner's responsibility for parkways in front of their homes.

Street trees, another responsibility of the homeowner as far as watering and trimming when under 15 feet, use of water softeners, swimming pool discharges, water service and transportation in the city are also covered.

Finally, a lengthy list of regulations on refuse collection are included.

Anyone who didn't get the information when they bought property in the city can pick up the material at the city clerk's office. □

Two sales reps named

Charles (Tony) Rodriguez of Chino and Edward (Ed) Kij of Alta Loma have been named sales representatives by the Allstate Insurance Companies, according to R.H. Barge Jr., regional vice president.

Barge said they will be assigned to the companies' sales office in the Sears store at 304 E. Foothill Blvd., Upland.

on Oct. 13-15. Always a big event, this is their main fund raiser and many hours are devoted to the project to assure its success. They recently had a garage sale which netted over $900.

Book sales and garage sales are not their only big events each year. Their annual spring membership dinner is always a gala affair. Last spring, Jack Smith, L.A. Times columnist, returned as a guest speaker. The Friends are presently planning their fourth annual wine tasting party which is scheduled for the end of September. The spring dinner and the fall wine tasting party give the members a chance to mingle, rekindle old friendships and make new ones.

The Friends is governed by a 15 member board of directors which meets the first Monday of each month at 5 p.m. in the library's multipurpose room. It is during these meetings that plans are made for upcoming events and decisions are made on expenditures. The meeting is open to all members.

Regardless of whether a member is active on the board of directors, or just enjoys attending the get-togethers or sales, it is important to remember that each member does make a positive contribution to the Upland community. If you think you'd like to join, call the library for more information, or pick up a Friends brochure during your next trip to the library. □

Safety signals should be ready for school

By Ian Fallis

Flashing crosswalk caution signals should be installed at three Upland elementary schools by the time school starts Sept. 12.

"The project could proceed at any moment," said Upland traffic engineer Peter Liu, and it will only take "a couple of weeks" to put up the signals at Baldy View, Citrus and Sycamore elementary schools.

"It should be finished by the start of the school year," he said.

The city council voted to erect the signals at the schools as a result of the traffic accident death of David Gin, 9, as he crossed the street in front of Baldy View School April 6, Liu said.

He said the traffic situation at each school is similar. "All three are located on collector streets," with 6,000 to 8,000 vehicles going by each day, and all are in the middle of the block between San

Plan your child's route to school

The following tips were provided by the Public Safety Department of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Most children are under supervision at home and are watched almost constantly while they are in school.

But children face many dangers between home and school.

Children account for a larger number of pedestrian accidents than other age groups. About 20 percent of the pedestrians killed in accidents are 5 to 14 years old.

Parents can help their children face those dangers by teaching children about them, and by being aware of the dangers themselves.

About one in four children in the United States rides a bus to school. Parents should be sure their children become familiar with the standard school bus rules, know their responsibilities as a school bus rider and learn the driver's name.

In addition, children should be taught that school bus riding is a privilege that can be taken away if the child's conduct affects the safety of other children, and that defacing school buses and school property can be expensive to parents, who pay for those things.

There are ten rules for school bus riders:

1. Leave home early enough to arrive at your school bus stop on time. But don't arrive too early.
2. Wait for your school bus in a safe place — well off the roadway — and remain there quietly.
3. Enter the school bus in an orderly manner and take your seat. Remain quiet.
4. Follow the instructions of your school bus driver, who is in charge at all times.
5. Remain in your seat while the school bus is in motion.
6. Help keep the bus clean.
7. Keep your head and arms inside the bus at all times.
8. Be courteous to the bus driver and other passengers.
9. Be alert for traffic while leaving the bus.
10. Learn the emergency drill procedures.

Many children also walk to school, and parents should carefully plan a child's route to school. The guidelines below should help plan the safest route.

Children should take the safest, most direct route. If there is a shorter route that is less safe, you should explain why it is better to take the longer route.

Select a route that has a minimum of street crossings. Consider the street width, the traffic volume or speed and whether there are adequate gaps in traffic for a child to cross.

Pedestrian tunnels or overpasses may be provided near schools to guide children around traffic hazards, and these crossings should be used in route planning.

If possible, restrict routes to intersections with a crossing guard.

Avoid complicated intersections unless they have a crossing guard.

School tips

Select routes so that as many children as possible will merge at one place when crossing a hazardous street.

Try to use traffic signals that have separate walk-don't walk indicators. Be certain your child is familiar with special traffic movements at signalized intersections, such as those created by turn arrows and lanes.

Instill an awareness of the potential danger when a car passes through a crosswalk while turning during a green light. Have them wait for a new green light before crossing, and check for oncoming cars.

Use sidewalks, pathways or bikepaths at every opportunity — they provide buffer zones from traffic flow. If a roadway must be used, stress walking on the left, facing traffic, and staying as far from the traveled road surface as possible.

In addition, children should be taught to cross only at corners, use a crosswalk, look both ways before crossing, and never cross from between two parked cars.

Children who ride bikes to school should also have their routes planned, using much the same criteria.

They should also be taught to obey all traffic signs and signals, use hand signals, always stop before entering a street from a driveway or sidewalk, and always give pedestrians and cars the right-of-way.

Parents who drive their children to school can be a traffic hazard themselves. They create congestion and increased traffic near the large numbers of children gathered at the school.

If children must be driven to school, parents should try to park on the side of the street the school is on so children don't have to cross between parked cars.

Neighbors should try to pool rides.

And parents should always comply with the speed limits in school zones. Research has shown that neighborhood residents typically drive 10 mph over the posted speed limits in school zones, and some of the worst offenders are parents.

So make sure your children know how to deal with traffic at its worst, and don't contribute to it. □

Safety signals to be installed at schools

Antonio and Mountain avenues, he said.

Baldy View School is on 11th Street, Citrus School is on Seventh Street and Sycamore School is on 13th Street.

Liu said the city council recently awarded the contract to Webb Electric of Ontario, and the city traffic department was only waiting for the company to submit its insurance verification before the work begins.

Webb was the low bidder for the six signals — two at each school — at $18,381.

In addition, the city purchased the six posts and mast arms at a little more than $1,000 each, Liu said. He said that was done to save money, because contractors normally mark up the prices of the poles.

That makes the total cost of the signals about $24,000.

Only part of the shipment arrived at first, Liu said. But he was not overly concerned because other work — like digging and pouring the foundations and laying the electrical line — can be done until the rest arrives. □

Etiwanda High to open soon

By Matt Coker

The Eagles are coming to Rancho Cucamonga.

But these eagles do not have feathers nor are they bald. They are students who will be attending Etiwanda High School, expected to be completed in November.

The high school will open just 100 years after the first Etiwanda school opened.

Construction is being hurried along so classes, which will be held at Chaffey High School during the beginning of the year, can begin at the 38-acre school site as soon as possible.

On opening day, the school will have a capacity of 1,200 students; 850 freshmen, sophomores and juniors will be shifted over during the 1983-84 school year. A senior class will be added the second year.

Twelve relocatable classrooms in three buildings will be used until the area's growth permits the construction of more permanent structures. The school will ultimately hold 2,500 students.

Since construction has started on the 8,000-unit Victoria Village housing community in the area, the need to expand the school may not be far away.

The school will be located at 13500 Victoria Ave. The boundary to the west runs from the mountains south on Amethyst Avenue to Base Line Avenue. From Base Line, it runs east to Archibald Avenue down to Devon Street. The school will draw students from the Central, Alta Loma and Etiwanda school districts.

Don Culp, an instructor, counselor and assistant principal at Upland High School for 21 years, will be the principal of the school. He is eager to move to the campus and excited about the staff who will go with him.

All is well in hand for Etiwanda High opening

"We've developed a very sound instructional program and the most exciting thing is the teaching staff we have put together," Culp said.

The school was able to advertise for teachers within the Chaffey Joint Union High School District, of which Etiwanda High School is a part. Culp said 35 teachers have been named.

Though his temporary office in the South Hall of Chaffey High looks like a moving van, Culp said everything is taken care of — right down to the school colors, which are black, gold and red.

The yearbook and newspaper staffs have already been assembled, the student body and class officials have been elected, marching bands and color guards are manned and pep squads have been selected and are currently practicing.

"The school will be large enough to have a varied curriculum, yet small enough to give students individual attention," Culp said. "We are encouraging every student to participate in some kind of activity on campus."

Culp also said students who have had trouble adjusting to a larger school setting may be able to cope better at Etiwanda High School. However, that would not appear to be much of a problem, considering the high test scores students are bringing with them to the school, Culp said.

The Etiwanda staff is presently meeting with parents, distributing class schedules to students and providing detailed information on the classes.

Culp said he has been impressed by the "tremendous amount of work done by teachers last year and this summer on their own time.

"They've done so many things that go into opening a new school, without any financial reward or compensation," Culp said. "This has been done on top of their teaching duties and assignments at their former high school." □ stand-offish with someone sitting next to you in pajamas. Everyone stops being a stranger almost immediately."

Calderwood stumbled into the Y camp program almost by accident but is firmly committed to making it his life's work now.

A wrestler at Chaffey, he had a free summer and decided it wanted to start a wrestling club through the YMCA. When he went down to talk to them about it, it was the same day they were interviewing for camp counselors.

"They suggested I apply. I did and was selected," he said. It opened a whole new world for him, he said. although it is not a full time job right now, Calderwood said he finds it the most rewarding thing he does.

Calderwood serves as assistant camp director at Camp Oakes and director of the day camp program for the West End YMCA.

Day activities are over at 5 and dinner is served at 5:30. "We have dress-up themes each night," Calderwood said. "Tonight is 'western,' you'll hear a lot of 'y'alls' and 'howdies' tonight," Calderwood said.

After dinner, twilight games are held. Twilight games cover a variety of things. "We have scavenger hunts, capture the flag and dances. The big favorite though, is the Battle of the Mountain People vs. the Valley Giants," Calderwood said.

Campers, during their afternoon rest time (an hour between 1 and 2 p.m.) make tissue flowers to use as ammunition for the great battle.

"It's really something to see — all those flowers flying around. No one gets hurt, everyone just has fun."

Probably the most traditional part of the day is the campfire ceremony in the evening. It's a time for stories and songs and winding down from the day. All campers and staff are involved in the night time activity.

After the campfire time, campers return to their cabins for a devotional time. "This is when the campers discuss the days activities, resolve any problems that might have come up," said YMCA General Director Bob Huether.

"It's like a continuing course in human relations. Campers, under the direction of cabin leaders, work toward resolutions of problems. That's why you don't see fights and arguments all the time — they learn other ways to deal with conflict. Often if a argument breaks out, you'll see other campers helping to settle things," Huether said.

On the last evening in camp, closing ceremonies were held on the waterfront area instead of around the traditional camp fire. Each camper held a lighted candle and exchanged words about their thoughts and feelings with each other.

There are 18 cabins, nine for boys and nine for girls. Each cabin sleeps eight to 10 campers plus the unit leader and a leader in training. Each cabin is isolated and has a view of the surrounding mountains. Boys are on one side and girls are on another. □

Business school is 'super school'

The former Skadron College of Business, located in San Bernardino since 1907, has announced that it now becomes the nation's first National Education Center "super school."

The identity change is the first step in a planned expansion of school curricula and a major corporate identification program for National Education Corporation's 47 centers nationwide.

He's got the world by the tail at age 15

By Terri Tirella

Alta Loma resident Gregory La Strape is only 15. But he knows where he's going and how he's going to get there.

The versatile Alta Loma High School sophomore is a singer, actor, dancer and all-around musician who plays drums, clarinet and keyboard.

At 15, Gregory La Strape has planned his career.

La Strape, who will open for Rick Nelson Aug. 18 in Victorville, has already appeared on stage and television, in commercials, extra parts and singing voice-overs.

His singing style has even been compared with that of Barbra Streisand in "Drama Log," an entertainment publication.

But La Strape said he wants to make his living acting, not singing, where his talents have been proved

How about those thunderstorms this past week? The rainstorm on Tuesday was pleasant and refreshing, while it was raining. It certainly took a lot of folks by surprise, smack in the middle of August and in California!

It would be fun to be a kid again to slosh barefoot through all the puddles, ah me, such are the dreams of the adults.

Back to reality and the business at hand.

Are your taste buds clamoring for some tasty Italian cuisine? I have the perfect solution for you.

Femino's Italian Restaurant at 8030 Vineyard, just north of Foothill in Rancho Cucamonga wants to come as you are and join them for a zesty Italian dinner. The price is certainly right, starting at $4.95 for a complete meal including soup, salad and their yummy Italian bread. Dinners are served from 5 until 11 p.m. Before you order please ask about the daily specials.

The luncheon special for this week is a boneless breast of chicken for a reasonable $3.95.

Femino's won't be serving a Sunday brunch during the hot summer months, but starting September 2nd watch for the brunch hours.

The Sunday hours at present are from 4 until 10 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m. Femino's is closed on Monday and every day from 3 until 5 p.m.

Now that I have you in Cucamonga you might drop in at the Magic Lamp Inn at 8189 Foothill Blvd. on any Monday night and put a little jazz in your life. Trust me, the hot jazz group, Chuck Datilo Quartet, will make you forget the dog days of summer.

Elegant dining at the Lamp won't put your budget in a bind. Complete dinners start at $7.95, the Monday night special for that price is a tender, juicy prime rib dinner with soup or salad, fresh vegetables and rice or potatoes. Fresh seafood is served daily for luncheon and dinner.

What more could you ask of a nifty restaurant, delicious dinners, cocktails and dancing. You could spend an entire evening there just living it up.

El Camino Real is offering you a sizzling summer special. Two dinners for the price of one. You buy one and get the 2nd of lesser or equal value, free!

Any Saturday or Sunday, El Camino Real tempts you to have breakfast there with a 99¢ special. The price is too good to pass up.

El Camino Real is at 1881 E. 4th Street in Ontario.

The brand new Kowloon Restaurant in the Vanguard Center, 916 N. Mountain in Upland just had their grand opening on Monday August 1st. They want you to come in and try the authentic Chinese cuisine, to entice you they are offering a 15% discount on all dinners, no coupons to clip, just come in between the hours of 5 and 9:30 p.m.

time and again.

"Acting seems like more of a challenge then singing because singing is my forte, it's what I do best," the soft-spoken teenager said.

"When you sing, you learn the song, remember the words and that's it. When you're an actor you have to remember a whole script and do different kinds of characters.

"You get to be someone other than yourself. When I'm singing, it's just me singing," he said.

La Strape, who took first place in the Los Angeles County Fair talent show, went on to represent California in the international competition held in Memphis, Tenn. He placed third out of 70 acts from throughout the nation and Canada.

He lost to two acts from Memphis; one was a rock group, the other a dancer. "They were really good," he said. He bought a keyboard with his winnings.

But his most prized honor was "The Drama Log's Critic's Choice Award" for his performance in "Skylark," an original play in Beverly Hills and based on a script developed by Michael Ricciardi.

La Strape said the script was created with him in mind.

And it was his performance in "Skylark" that prompted the Drama Log critic to dub him Streisand's kid brother.

"They (other people in the show) started calling me Babs," he said.

Johnny Lee heads S.B. County Fair talent lineup

A full lineup of top-notch entertainment has been booked for this year's San Bernardino County Fair, in Victorville, Aug. 16-21. The theme for the fair is "Fun-tastic."

Headlining the Tuesday, Aug. 16 opening night show will be singer Johnny Lee. He'll be followed on Wednesday night, teen night, by the popular Papa Doo Run Run. Rick Nelson will headline the third consecutive night of free grandstand entertainment with an appearance on Thursday, Aug. 18.

Friday and Saturday nights, Aug. 19 and 20, will see the Flying U Rodeo and top cowboys and cowgirls from the Western United States competing for dollars and points. There is an extra charge for the rodeo.

And on Sunday night, the last night of the fair, something new has been added, a Demolition Derby in which the last car still running wins.

In addition to the headline entertainment, a host of talented performers, most from San Bernardino County, will entertain fair-goers on the 7-Up Stage and on the fairgrounds itself.

Visitors may picnic on the lawn at Phillips Mansion, located on Pomona Boulevard between Temple Avenue and the Corona Expressway. Picnic tables are available at Adobe de Palomares, 491 E. Arrow Highway. Casa Primera is located at 1569 N. Park Ave.

There is no admission charge.

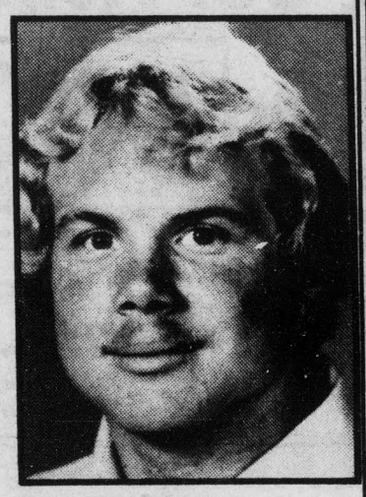
Ex-Upland grid star plays for Gophers



Mike Zinda

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Mike Zinda, a 6-foot-2, 215-pound junior strong linebacker from Upland, will be among the nearly 100 grid hopefuls reporting for football practice at the University of Minnesota next week.

Head coach Joe Salem will greet his new freshmen on Wednesday, Aug. 17 and those yearlings will work through an orientation period of three days before being joined by the old timers on Saturday, Aug. 20.

Zinda starred at Upland High School before enrolling at Santa Clara. After a year at Santa Clara, Zinda transferred to Mt. San Antonio College.

He's the son of John Zinda, head coach at Claremont McKenna College.

Full-scale practice, with veterans and freshmen in "sweats" for the first few days, will begin Aug. 22, all part of Salem's preparations for the 1983 season opener in Houston on Sept. 10 against Rice University.

Salem expects to have 27 lettermen in camp for pre-season drills, but he still faces a major rebuilding job trying to replace 15 starters who were among the 34 lettermen who have departed.

Injuries, an unbelieveable number of them, and a lack of depth proved to be Minnesota's downfall a year ago when it finished 3-8 and Salem spent his 20 days of spring practice moving some players to new positions, looking closely at a handful of junior college transfers and scrutinizing 20 redshirts in hopes of correcting those problems.

Consequently, Minnesota's entry into the 1983 Big Ten Conference race will have a new look. The rebuilding job Salem faces will be part of that scene, and the Golden Gopher staff will be running a parallel course since eight new assistants have joined the Minnesota football program.

Early practice is expected to find Salem continuing his search for a quarterback to replace the graduating Mike Hohensee. Greg Murphy, a junior college transfer, won the top spot in spring drills but now he must fight off the challenge of several highly-touted incoming freshmen.

Scaletta's back on the road playing baseball

They used to say join the Navy and see the world.

Well, Upland's Tom Scaletta has found a less "uniform" way to savor international cooking.

Scaletta's back on the road after a short visit home. He spent a few days in Upland, sandwiched between a two-week stay in Belgium and a visit to Venezuela via Miami, Fla., and Columbia.

That's more exotic locales than most folks see in a lifetime, but the 20-year old Upland High product hasn't exactly been on a Love Boat cruise this summer.

He's a key member of the United States National baseball team. Scaletta, a two-year starter at shortstop for Cal Poly, was the starting shortstop for the U.S. at the recently completed Intercontiental Cup Series in Belgium.

Scaletta helped spark the U.S. to a second-place finish in that tournament, hitting a robust .370 and sparkling afield.

The U.S. went 8-3 in the tourney. A veteran Cuban team won the competition at 9-2, and in the process administered all three defeats to the youthful U.S. team, made up mostly of college sophomores and juniors.

"It's been quite an experience so far," Scaletta said. "But it's no vacation. We are in these countries to play baseball, not to take in the sights. Since we are representing the U.S., we have to be on our best behavior on and off the field."

Scaletta certainly was at his best in Belgium as the U.S. team just missed winning the tourney.

"We, Cuba and Taiwan all wound up with identical records in the round-robin portion of the tourney," Scaletta said. "Cuba then drew the bye for the one-day playoff. We played Taiwan that morning and won 2-1 with a run in the ninth. Then we played Cuba and got beat 8-4.

"Cuba was far and away the best team in the tourney. The big thing they have is that they are very experienced. For instance, the pitcher who beat us in the final game was 32 years old. Many coaches and scouts feel they have several guys who could play in the major leagues right now.

"I hit the ball real well in Belgium. Oddly enough, I hit three home runs in the tourney, after hitting only two all year at Poly in over 60 games.

"The Cubans are not unbeatable. They lost to both Taiwan and Canada in the tourney. We are looking forward to getting another shot at them in the Pan American Games."

Scaletta's American team was scheduled for a couple exhibition games in Colombia prior to opening Pan Am action in Caracas, Venezuela Sunday.

"I'm sure that Cuba will again be the team to beat at Caracas. But Puerto Rico also has a strong team, and I think Canada is kind of a sleeper. It

How to arrive at a happy medium.

It's easy with our Level Pay Plan.

If you've been going through the ups and downs of paying your monthly gas bills we have a way to help balance things out. With our optional Level Pay Plan.

It'll spread the costs of your higher winter gas bills over the entire year. So you face approximately the same size gas bill every month. Summer and winter.

Here's how it works: we'll estimate your total gas bill for the upcoming year based on the history of gas used in your home and our current rates.

Then we'll divide the amount by twelve to establish your monthly Level Pay Plan amount. On the twelfth month your bill will be adjusted to reflect any underpayment or overpayment based on your total actual gas usage compared to your estimated usage.

Throughout the year we'll continue to read your meter and review your bills. And your Level Pay Plan amount will be adjusted whenever your average usage decreases or increases substantially or the month following any rate change. That will help keep the final month's adjustment to a minimum.

To participate in the Level Pay Plan just pay the Level Pay Plan amount on your August gas bill. And if you decide to drop the plan at any time, simply notify us. It doesn't cost you a thing.

For more information call your local Gas Company office.

You'll like the convenience of our Level Pay Plan. And you'll find it's an easy way to get even with your high winter gas bills.

will be interesting, that's for sure."

Scaletta had local company on the Belgium trip, as Claremont's Mark McGwire was also a member of the U.S. team. McGwire, a sophomore at USC, hit .298 in the tourney and had a game-winning home run against Taiwan.

The team was managed by Bob Bennett of Fresno State. USC's Rod Dedeaux, who will be the manager of the U.S. team in the 1984 Olympics, was also instrumental in selecting players to the U.S. squad.

"I think that's a big reason why I got on the team," said Scaletta. "Dedeaux had seen me play a few times for Cal Poly, and of course my coach (John Scolinos) recommended me highly as well."

Scaletta has been on nothing but winners so far in 1983. He was a member of the NCAA Division II champion Cal Poly team in the spring.

"It was kind of funny," said Scaletta. "We had a great year as a team but I had my worst year ever at bat."

Scaletta hit .307 as a freshman in 1982, playing every inning of 54 games. He was an ironman again for the Broncos in 1983, playing in all 63 contests.

But his average plunged below .200 most of the year until a late surge put it at .240 for the season.

Upland PW in search of players

Upland Pop Warner is on the lookout for local youths interested in playing and cheering on teams for the upcoming season.

The Bandits (mighty mite) and Rams (junior pee wee) are looking for players from 8-10 years of age weighing 45-85 pounds to compete during the 1983 season.

Also needed are girls 7-14 to act as cheerleaders

Upland Pop Warner squads practice daily from 5:30-7:30 p.m. at Upland High School, with late registrations being accepted this week.

Coaches chosen for this season's squads include Dickie Chapman (Bandits-mighty mites), Charlie Carthorne (Rams-junior pee wee), Al Wenzel (Chargers-pee wee), Mike Hangca (Vikings-junior midgets), Lenny LaFontaine (Outlaws-midgets).

Astros on English trip

Boys of the Upland Astros Soccer Club have landed in England to spend two weeks playing against British teams and attending a soccer training camp in a suburb of London.

The entourage, numbering 47 boys and parents, departed last Friday from Los Angeles International on Pan Am. They were met at the London airport by their hosts, the Rovers Soccer Club of Iver Heath.

To finance the trip the boys worked for a year, pulling weeds, washing cars and holding garage sales to accumulate $16,000.

Family organization brings Catholics back to the fold them closer to their parish and deepen their faith through charitable and apostolic works.

"We try to help where we're needed," said Alice Patronite, club secretary. "We bring meals to people who are (recently) home from the hospital and go to a convalescent home twice a year, and bring (the patients) flowers, cookies and punch."

The local organization holds three or four fund-raisers a year to help with parish educational programs or special church projects, Melei said.

"We have a pantry we try to keep well-stocked ... we have brought needy people boxes with canned goods or, if they need something specific, we have provided them with a food certificate or taken care of their utility bills. Sometimes we will do it (help someone) anonymously," Melei said.

The organization currently makes donations to the Right to Life League and to Santa Claus, Inc. in Ontario, where toys for needy children are collected and worked on year-round. It also collects canned food and clothes for the needy in Mexico.

The local branch of the federation is a family organization, according to Melei. Its monthly meetings are family potlucks or picnics, with supervised activities for children.

"The youth have always participated in everything — fund-raisers, projects. Everything is done as a family," Melei said.

She said the group sends a yearly report to the organization's central council, including listings of contributions made by youth, and also keeps a scrapbook.

The group also holds two annual events: a district picnic and the Bishop's Dinner/Dance, a fund-raiser for the San Bernardino seminary. □ the equipment donated," he said.

Missionaries rely on REAP

Some of the hospitals that have requested help are tiny, with as little as one bed, while others have more than 1,000 beds.

"But most are small, with 30 or 40 beds," Sharp said.

Those that are helped are added to the mailing list for REAP's bulletin, which lists available equipment. But much is spoken for before it can be requested, he said.

The reimbursement pays 65 percent of REAP's costs, Sharp said. The other 35 percent comes from cash donations from individuals, churches and companies, he said.

The only place REAP seems to be having trouble is in staffing. REAP has 14 full-time staff members and at least 16 volunteers who come in regularly.

But, he said, "it takes some 8 to 10 months before orders are ready to ship, primarily because of a lack of staff."

That doesn't stop REAP from helping missionaries in other ways also.

A shortwave radio makes it possible for missionaries to talk to relatives in case of a family emergency, and the hospitals can use the shortwave to request medical equipment needed immediately.

Also, "we have a standing policy of giving any missionary family that comes through a year's supply of vitamins," Sharp said.

And REAP will crate and ship their personal effects when they go overseas, he said. □ tuning (of the signal) to determine the traffic patterns and keep the flow as steady as possible."

The longest waits in the city occur at Mountain Avenue and Foothill Boulevard.

Factors considered in installing a new signal include collisions, complaints by motorists and residents and traffic volume.

Liu said other projects in the design stages include Euclid and 14th Street, 16th Street and Euclid Avenue and 19th and Euclid. "We identify problems and then correct them if we can," he said. "Many of our projects have had to be pushed back because of the need to do the Euclid Avenue storm drain project."

Liu said city officials had planned to widen Benson Avenue at the railroad crossing and to install crossing gates, but that is one of the projects placed on hold.

Liu said the city also wants to improve Mountain Avenue at the Santa Fe crossing — "the one where you go airborne" — but the railroad has not yet provided a list of materials needed to do the work.

"They don't want us to do anything on their tracks. They want to do the work while we supply the materials. But they just won't give us a list," he said. This project is still in the design stages too.

"We have a listing of projects and they are prioritized and as money becomes available, we do them," he said.

"Our aim is to make the city streets as safe as possible accident rate has been steadily decreasing in the last five years from 110 to 120 per month to 80 per month now, so the streets are definitely safer." □ the "Too Short for Prime Time Players" in a Saturday matinee program. The group did two specials for CBS and was nominated for two Emmy awards.

The program is geared for children as well as adults, which led La Strape to change some of the wording in "Are You Watching Me Now?" one of the songs (from the Streisand-Kris Kristofferson movie "A Star is Born") he performs in the show.

"I took out 'your eyes are like fingers, touching my body,' and changed it so it doesn't sound bad and makes sense. Musically, it sounds good." He also sings "Everything," another song from the movie.

"He saw the movie six or seven times," Kathy La Strape, Gregory's mother, said.

She said she didn't know her son was doing anything different from other kids his age when at age 2, he started imitating Tom Jones, singing and dancing.

"He started reading before kindergarten and when he was old enough to read he began to look at songs and sing," she said.

"His grandfather went out and bought him a violin." She said

Boy wonder La Strape takes success in stride

Gregory's grandfather was convinced he had musical talent.

"Gregory was so grown up anyway because he was always around adults. I didn't see any real difference until I had the other kids. I think now if I would have known he was different we would have started (his career) sooner."

Gregory has two younger brothers and a younger sister; Reina, 11; Aaron, 8 and Martin, 5. Each child has a different area of interest and their mother tries to help them pursue it. "I don't want the other kids to say 'You did more for Gregory than you did for me,'" she said.

The Alta Loma High School student says he gets "average grades, A's and B's," and has to work for them. "To get a work permit (when you're a minor) they make sure you're in good physical condition and your grades have to be average," La Strape said.

"There's a social worker on the set. The social worker is like a tutor and we must bring schoolwork every day we're on the set," he said. His mother must also be on the set.

La Strape said his entertainment career doesn't interfere with his regular schooling, other than leaving class five or 10 minutes early for two or three days when filming commercials.

He's been in a commercial for Sip-Ups, flavored milk on sale on the East Coast; a commercial for NewsCenter 4 in Detroit and played soccer on a Coors Beers commercial for a Mexican station.

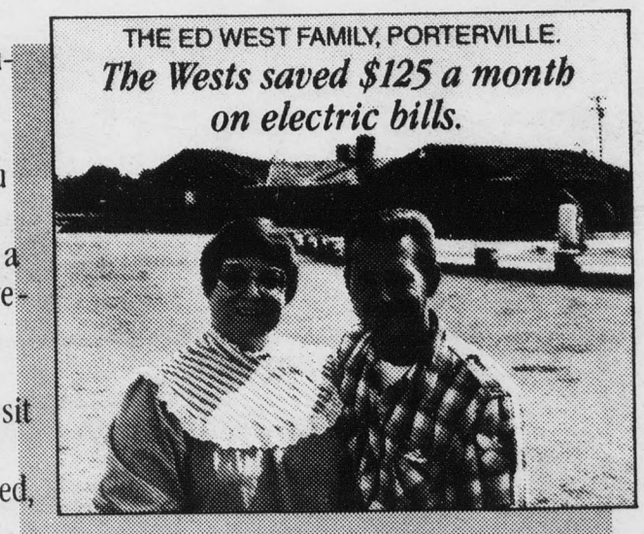
Currently, the teenager is working on another show, tentatively called "The Hooligans." □

An Edison Energy Survey Of Your Home Can Save You Energy And Money, Too.

The Wests, Lineaus and Reutters are just three examples of Edison customers who significantly reduced their energy consumption and costs following a free home energy survey of their homes by Southern California Edison energy specialists.

If you're looking for ways to reduce your monthly electric bills, you can arrange a free energy survey of your home today.

All you do is call the toll-free number indicated below or fill in the coupon and send it to us.



We'll call you and set up an appointment at a time that's convenient for you. A trained Edison specialist will visit your home and do a personalized, computerized energy survey which will clearly identify steps you can take to make your home more energy efficient. The survey takes only about an hour.

Many energy conservation methods we recommend cost little or nothing. For instance, Mr. and Mrs. Edward West reported savings by following such simple measures as air-drying dishes in the dishwasher and using their fireplace rather than their heating system.

Of course, other savings were affected by installation of more energy-efficient devices in the home. The Wests installed an evaporative cooler and also weatherstripped and caulked their home. The Lineaus, after their audit, added two desert coolers to their cooling system and reduced their hot weather bills 40%. The Reutters insulated their attic and wrapped their ducts and water heater. They expect a reduction of $170 in their electric bills.

Chances are, a free energy survey will save you energy and money.

This summer, if you choose to install energy-saving devices in your home following an Edison survey, you also may be eligible for hundreds of dollars in cash rebates on energy savers listed here. Or you may qualify for low, 8% interest financing with no down payment and up to eight years to repay. Also, you may be eligible for state or federal tax credits on these expenditures.

Here's a list of rebates available:

Energy-efficient refrigerator	$ 50
Heat pump water heater	266
Weather stripping and caulking	19
Duct insulation	106
Attic & roof insulation	302
Wall insulation	145

Storm and thermal windows	134
Heat pump	915
High-efficiency air conditioning units	421
Whole house fan	160
Evaporative cooler	328
Pre-Cooler	200
Clock thermostat	36

To arrange your survey, and for full details, just call us toll-free at 1-800-952-5062.

For faster service, fill in the coupon and send it back to us today. Meantime, thank you for all your conservation efforts.

Yes! I want to find out how I can save money and energy in my home. Please contact me to set up an appointment for a Free Home Energy Survey.

Hobbyist transforms sculptures into art

By Matt Coker

Nicholas Petrovich wishes he could sit in his home near the Red Hill Country Club and devote full attention to his hobby.

Petrovich's hobby is painting portraits and he has recently begun antiquing and painting molded sculptures too.

Although some of the unfinished sculptures the 55-year-old insurance broker and credit union manager buys are familiar to craft shop addicts, once Petrovich gets done with them they are truly works of art.

Though Petrovich currently has 450 molds to choose from, he's become interested in making his own molds.

Rather than simply give the pieces a bronze or one-color wood tone effect, Petrovich makes the sculptures look as life-like as possible. The fact that he is a realist portrait painter helps a great deal, he said.

Most of the sculptures are rugged outdoor scenes such as a big grizzly bear fighting two wolves or a fisherman in a rowboat or pieces depicting the Old West. The finished works usually weigh between 40 and 100 pounds.

Petrovich said he is confused over the customer preferences for his hard-plaster sculptured works.

"These people from Morro Bay bought $1,000 worth of nothing but westerns," Petrovich said. "You would think people from Morro Bay would buy nauticals (those depicting the sea). But they buy westerns for all those sailors."

It takes up to nine hours to complete a piece using a lacquer paint airspray brush, but Petrovich said he is having fun doing it.

Whether he antiques before painting or simply applies the lacquer to the piece, Petrovich said most of the time is spent applying the colors and wiping them off to get paint into the grooves.

While not criticizing those who only use one or two colors on a piece, Petrovich said either lack of skill, capability or money keeps other artists from putting as much work as he does into his sculptures.

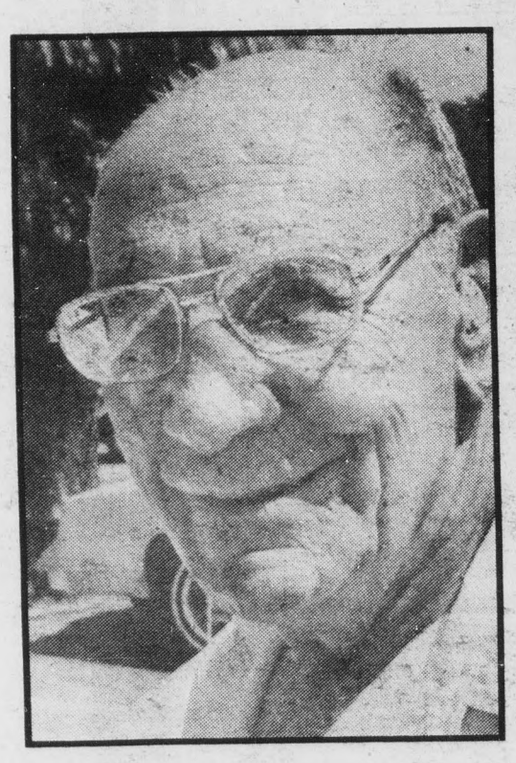
"It's a challenge trying to have one piece turn out exactly like the other," he said. "Maybe to you it looks just the same as the next one, but I can tell the difference. It may turn out better or worse, but you're unlimited if you have any creative ability at all."

Petrovich focused his studies on the advertising aspect when he graduated from the Chicago Academy of Art. Having spent some years in the advertising business, he said the experience helped a great deal.

"I get a mental picture of what the sculptures will look like, then I write some guidelines down," he said. "I have to have (a frame of) references. That is something I picked up from the advertising business."

He uses books to find the proper colors for anything from a grizzly bear to the war paint on an Indian chief. □

Speak out: What do you think of a proposed city tax to keep services at the current level?



John Davison, Upland: All they can think of is taxing. They've been decreasing services anyway, every time we turn around.

Bertha Henderson, Upland: It really depends on what services they plan to decrease. There's not much we senior citizens can do, we're on a limited income there's not much more (money) we have to able to pay in taxes. It's already hard enough for us to struggle along as it is.

Russ Bertram, Upland: I don't think they should increase taxes, but they're going to have to increase taxes because we need those services.

Jeanne Copeland, Upland: I hate to see taxes increased but I'd also hate to see services decreased. It's a tough question. I suppose I would have to go with taxes being increased.
